学术单元 Academic Components

Social Perspectives in Education

课程描述 Course Description

This course is designed to provide students with an understanding of how society, culture and education interrelate. The course uses current research and sociological theory to understand Australian education within a global context, examine the impact of relevant government policies for schooling and to understand the interaction of sociological factors in relation to student outcomes. Students will need to demonstrate an understanding of how a variety of social and cultural characteristics may impact the functioning of schools and student learning, including socioeconomic status, ethnicity and cultural background, gender, geographic location and school type. To demonstrate their understanding students will be required to engage with sociological data and critique, utilising a range of verbal, non-verbal and TELT resources and teaching strategies.

课程主讲 Course Presenter
